Ernst Rudolf, Peter Scherrer

The Octagon of Arsinoë IV in Ephesos

A Ptolemaic Queen's tomb at the transition from a Hellenistic to a Roman Imperial city

Table of Content

| Prologue | 10 |
|---|----|
| Introduction | 12 |
| The Alexandrian Queen Arsinoë IV | 14 |
| The youngest daughter of Pharaoh Ptolemaios XII | 16 |
| 2. A girl-Queen in the 'Alexandrian War' | 17 |
| 3. On a processional litter | 18 |
| 4. The victories of a Pharian woman | 19 |
| 5. The end of a counter-Queen | 22 |
| 5.1 A former Queen as a supplicant | 22 |
| 5.2 An obscure murder on Artemisian ground | 22 |
| 6. Arsinoë IV – born in Ephesos? | 23 |
| 7. Conclusions | 26 |
| 8. Epilogue | 28 |
| An octagonal mausoleum in Ephesos | 30 |
| 1. Excavation history | 31 |
| 1.1 A "monument of victory" in 1904 | 31 |
| 1.2 A "heroon" in 1929 | 33 |
| 1.3 Tomb raiders and water | 35 |
| 1.4 A Ptolemaic grave? | 38 |
| 2. The skeletal remains of the Octagon | 39 |
| 2.1 The skull | 39 |
| 2.2 The postcranial skeleton | 40 |
| 3. The date of the Octagon's construction | 45 |
| 3.1 One author, one year, two datings | 46 |
| 3.2 Pre-Augustan and Augustan | 46 |
| 3.3 The time gap | 47 |
| 4. Arsinoë's assassination within the Artemisian asylum | 48 |
| 4.1 The Artemisian asylum – a delicate issue | 49 |
| 5. The site of the Octagon | 50 |
| 5.1 The "Triodos" | 50 |
| 6. The shape of the Octagon | 51 |
| 6.1 Octagonality | 51 |
| 6.2 A 'temple mausoleum' | 54 |
| 6.3 The Alexandrian lighthouse | 55 |
| 6.4 The Octagon – a 'Pharian' edifice? | 56 |
| 6.5 Geometry provides a lot of support to the architect | 58 |
| 6.6 Ichnographia and Orthographia | 59 |
| 6.7 Euklidean geometry | 61 |
| 6.8 A 'sublime proportion' | 61 |
| 6.9 Inner section and outer extension | 62 |
| 6.10 The 'Sacred Cut' | 64 |

| 6.11 All is eight (πάντα ὀκτώ) | 65 |
|---|--|
| 7. The fascia of Artemis | 67 |
| 7.1 Astragal-shaped cords | 67 |
| 7.2 Keys | 68 |
| 7.3 A weapon relief | 70 |
| 8. Not an Ephesian heor, but a Greco-Egyptian heroine | 71 |
| 9. Conclusions | 71 |
| Arsinoë(s) in Ephesos – the historical background | 74 |
| 1. Lysimachos and Arsinoë (Il ?) as city founders of Ephesos | 74 |
| 2. The Ptolemaic Queens Arsinoë II and Arsinoë III in Ephesos | 80 |
| 3. Observations on the political and administrative structural reform of | |
| Arsinoeia/Ephesos and its consequences in the Roman imperial period | 86 |
| 4. Historical conclusions | 91 |
| The architectural development of Hellenistic Ephesos and | |
| the expansion of the city under Augustus | 92 |
| 1. Preliminary remarks on the location of the city at the coast, and its harbours | 92 |
| 2. Public buildings: agoras, theatre, gymnasia | 96 |
| 3. City walls and gates | 98 |
| | |
| Conclusions regarding the extent of the Hellenistic city and the Augustan urban expansion | 105 |
| urban expansion | 105 |
| | |
| urban expansion | 105 110 |
| urban expansion The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos | |
| urban expansion The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the | 110 127 |
| urban expansion The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos | 110 127 |
| urban expansion The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources | 110 |
| urban expansion The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) | 110 127 127 127 127 131 |
| urban expansion The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids | 110 127 127 127 131 139 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of | 127 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of the Tetragonos Agora | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of the Tetragonos Agora 2.2 The Hexagon: a monument of Augustus and his grandchildren? | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of the Tetragonos Agora 2.2 The Hexagon: a monument of Augustus and his grandchildren? 3. Private funerary monuments of the Augustan and Julio-Claudian period on | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 146 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of the Tetragonos Agora 2.2 The Hexagon: a monument of Augustus and his grandchildren? 3. Private funerary monuments of the Augustan and Julio-Claudian period on the Embolos | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 146 148 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of the Tetragonos Agora 2.2 The Hexagon: a monument of Augustus and his grandchildren? 3. Private funerary monuments of the Augustan and Julio-Claudian period on the Embolos 3.1 The Monument of Memmius | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 148 156 156 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of the Tetragonos Agora 2.2 The Hexagon: a monument of Augustus and his grandchildren? 3. Private funerary monuments of the Augustan and Julio-Claudian period on the Embolos 3.1 The Monument of Memmius 3.2 The Round Monument on the Panayırdağ | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 148 156 156 160 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of the Tetragonos Agora 2.2 The Hexagon: a monument of Augustus and his grandchildren? 3. Private funerary monuments of the Augustan and Julio-Claudian period on the Embolos 3.1 The Monument of Memmius 3.2 The Round Monument on the Panayırdağ 3.3 The Cupola Tomb (so-called Circular Building) on the Bülbüldağ | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 148 156 156 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of the Tetragonos Agora 2.2 The Hexagon: a monument of Augustus and his grandchildren? 3. Private funerary monuments of the Augustan and Julio-Claudian period on the Embolos 3.1 The Monument of Memmius 3.2 The Round Monument on the Panayırdağ 3.3 The Cupola Tomb (so-called Circular Building) on the Bülbüldağ 3.4 The Heroon of Pollio, the Aqua Throessitica and the public fountains | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 148 156 156 160 162 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of the Tetragonos Agora 2.2 The Hexagon: a monument of Augustus and his grandchildren? 3. Private funerary monuments of the Augustan and Julio-Claudian period on the Embolos 3.1 The Monument of Memmius 3.2 The Round Monument on the Panayırdağ 3.3 The Cupola Tomb (so-called Circular Building) on the Bülbüldağ 3.4 The Heroon of Pollio, the Aqua Throessitica and the public fountains along the Domitian Lane | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 148 156 160 162 |
| The protector of Ephesos – Artemis and her sacred Triodos The Embolos – a walk of fame 1. The Hellenistic fountain buildings and honorific monuments on the lower Embolos 1.1 The Hypelaios fountain: a re-assessment of the written sources 1.2 The identification of the city spring Hypelaios (so-called Heroon of Androklos) 1.3 Nymphaea of the Ptolemies and Attalids 1.4 A statue of Lysimachos and the Hypelaios Spring 1.5 The site of the Octagon as part of the Hellenistic nymphaeum terrace 2. Honorific structures for Augustus in the region of the Embolos 2.1 The Aqua Iulia and the round water feature at the south-east corner of the Tetragonos Agora 2.2 The Hexagon: a monument of Augustus and his grandchildren? 3. Private funerary monuments of the Augustan and Julio-Claudian period on the Embolos 3.1 The Monument of Memmius 3.2 The Round Monument on the Panayırdağ 3.3 The Cupola Tomb (so-called Circular Building) on the Bülbüldağ 3.4 The Heroon of Pollio, the Aqua Throessitica and the public fountains | 110 127 127 127 131 139 141 143 146 148 156 156 160 |

| 4. The embellishment of the Embolos from Domitian to Hadrian | 171 |
|---|-----|
| 4.1 The Marnas aqueduct and the Fountain of Domitian | 173 |
| 4.2 The Library of Celsus | 175 |
| 4.3 The aqueduct with the Nymphaeum Traiani and the honorific tomb of | |
| Aristion | 177 |
| 4.4 The so-called Temple of Hadrian on the Embolos – a temple planned for Trajan | 179 |
| 4.5 The honorific tombs of rhetors and sophists at the Triodos in the 2 nd c. AD | 195 |
| 4.6 The Severan Hydreion as end point of the honorific buildings | |
| on the Embolos | 200 |
| The Triodos, the Octagon and the Embolos: Conclusions | 201 |
| 1. The building history of the Embolos and its significance within the | |
| urban development of Ephesos | 201 |
| 2. The honorific tombs on the Embolos | 205 |
| 3. The Embolos and the water supply of the city | 209 |
| 4. Artemis and the power of myths | 210 |
| In search of the skull from the Octagon | 214 |
| 1. A skull lost | 214 |
| 1.1 A ghost-skull | 214 |
| 1.2 A strange article | 215 |
| 1.3 A "triumvirate" | 217 |
| 1.4 Josef Weninger | 223 |
| 1.5 1944: Keil's skull and Egger's skeleton | 224 |
| 1.6 1945: The turnaround | 225 |
| 1.7 1953: Keil's skull and Egger's Festschrift | 226 |
| 1.8 Party comrades | 227 |
| 1.9 A "politically not engaged historian" | 230 |
| 1.10 A "universal scholar, humanist and wise man" | 232 |
| 1.11 A Secretary General and his master | 234 |
| 1.12 Conclusions | 239 |
| 1.13 Epilogue | 240 |
| 2. A skull regained | 246 |
| 2.1 "Ephesos, Grave of a hero" | 247 |
| 2.2 The end of a skull's journey | 250 |
| Concluding remarks | 252 |
| Acknowledgements | 256 |
| Notes | 258 |
| Plans | 332 |
| List of abbreviations | 336 |
| List of journals | 337 |
| Bibliography | 339 |
| Sources of plans and figures | 365 |
| Index | 367 |
| | |